E. And A. Division Veterans In Annual Reunion Here

CHINESE MASS TROOPS

Veterans Meet In Reunion At The Castleton

Twenty Year Veterans Of E. And A. Division Are Assembled

COME FROM MANY POINTS ON DIVISION

Banquet At Noon Marks Start Of Program—Aged Vets Present

For the 11th consecutive year the veterans of the Erie and Ashtabula division, Pennsylvania railroad, are gathering today for their annual reunion and banquet, and all afternoon The Castleton was filled with the veterans of the throttle and switch. For some of them it was their first veterans' banquet, their 20-year period of service being completed this year, while others present had seen the winters of four score years and more.

Although this year's reunion was not quite as large as some of the previous ones, yet there were veterans from every point on the division. From the ore docks of Ashtabula to the Conway yards they came primed for the one day when they met around the banquet board and relived some of the episodes of the past, when railroading was an adventure and every day saw danger riding the cars with them.

Honor Roll Men

Of the 175 present, 35 were honor roll men—that is to say, they had filled out their allotted three score and ten years, had finished their tour of duty with the Pennsylvania and are now retired. Of all the honor roll men, Jackson Bender of New Castle was the oldest present. Mr. Bender, who was a section foreman for many years, is 87 years of age, but the veterans' reunion sees him as chipper as the youngest veteran present.

The reunion dinner got under way at 12:30 o'clock in the main dining

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Robert Dukes, member of the police force, is a veteran hunter but they tell a good one on him. He went hunting out in the Mahoning township district Friday and just before he left, he purchased a box of shells. When County Detective H. M. Lee and his assistant Bernard Rocks happened on him while on business of the county in that district, they found that he was experiencing the unusual luck of having purchased sixteen guage shells for his shotgun, when he uses a twelve guage shotgun. Fortunately he had five of his old shells. He fired but one shot and got one bunny.

This morning a big cat furnished considerable amusement for many near The News office with its activities with a large rat. Pussy showed no disposition to kill its friend but evidently had it under its hypnotic influence, as the rat could not make its escape.

Pa Newc just heard that there was a real parade the other night down near Clintonville, when six prominent grocers, some of them quite fat, had to walk two miles to the nearest garage, when their machine gave away under the excessive weight. They were on their way to a food show in Dubois.

Pa Newc saw a lad walking on Cochran Way Friday morning, carrying a huge owl which he had shot in nearby woods.

Yesterday's temperature of 75 degrees was just about a record for farmth at this time of the year, al-

POWERS SAYS OFFICERS BEAT HIM FOR 12 HOURS

(International News Service)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 21—Harry F. Powers, the mail order "Bluebeard," testifying in his own behalf for a change of venue, today declared that he had been beaten for 12 hours by Harrison county detectives who sought to force him to confess to the brutal murders of two widows and three children.

A few minutes before, Powers sat unmoved as his attorney, J. Ed Law, outlined to Judge John C. Southern the attempts made to lynch Powers for the murders of Mrs. Asta Eicher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow, her three children, and Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, of Northboro, Mass. Attorney Law told Judge Southern that a fair trial for Powers in Harrison county would be an 'impossibility."

Powers Has Icy Stare.

Powers sat with an icy stare in his eyes as Attorney Law read to Judge Southern a score of newspaper headlines to show that feeling ran high against the mail order Romeo in this section.

Powers showed no emotion. He was clean-shaven and presented a mild appearance, rather in contrast to the accusations which his attorney was reading to the court. Powers had doffed the gray clothes in which he was arraigned for the five murders and today was dressed in a neat, dark blue suit.

Sheriff W. B. Grimm, the first witness called, told how he was forced to remove Powers from the Harrison county jail to the state penitentiary at Moundsville to forestall mob violence recently. He said throngs of curious residents hung about the jail walls continually eager to snatch a glimpse of Powers.

Tilby Smith, Convicted Of Plotting To Kill Wife, Pays With His Life

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—After innumerable delays and stays of execution, Tilby Smith, 26, of Ashtabula county, today had paid the supreme penalty for plotting the murder of his wife, Clara. He died in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here.

Smith went to the chair asking divine forgiveness and asserted "I am dying a brave man."

Pinchot-Lewis Deny Charges

Governor And State Highway Department Head Brand As 'Absurd' McGrew's Charges

LOW BIDDERS GET CONTRACTS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—Charges placed before President Hoover and government officials that federal road funds were used in part for a political "slush fund" in Pennsylvania to aid Pinchot political interests today were branded "absurd" in a denial issued by Secretary of Highways Samuel S. Lewis.

Following a conference with Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Secretary Lewis denied not only the charge that contractors must contribute a percentage of their receipts for road work to the fund, but that contractors were compelled to be bonded by any one agent.

Charges Absurd.

Charges against the department were made by Louis McGrew, of Pittsburgh, editor and publisher of the Labor World, who said that all contractors were compelled to be bonded by John C. Orr, Harrisburg agent.

"The absurdity of McGrew's charges," said Lewis, "becomes evident when it is known that contracts for road construction are given low bidders and to low bidders only. To suggest that having been given a contract on merit any contractor would be foolish enough to contribute to any sort of slush fund is to imply absolute lack of intelligence on his part."

GYPSIES LEAVE THIS MORNING

Three groups of gypsies, who have been making their headquarters here recently and concerning whom there has been so much complaint, that city council ordered them out as a health measure, packed up their belongings this morning and left the city. They had Long avenue blocked for a while, as they loaded their goods and made ready to depart.

Four Killed As Result Of Blast Aboard Tanker

Nine Others Seriously Injured In Tanker Explosion At San Francisco

UNLOADING BIG GAS SHIPMENT

Investigation Started To Determine What Caused Tragedy—Blaze Is Squelched

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov., 21.—An investigation was launched today to determine the cause of the explosion which killed four men and seriously injured nine others and shattered the Standard Oil company Tanker, Charlie Watson. It was believed the explosion was caused when gasoline from a broken hose was ignited in a manner which is not yet known. The tanker was being unloaded of a cargo of gasoline at pier 43 when the blast occurred.

The Dead:

Chief Officer B. C. Ripley, Richmond, Cal.

Third Mate John Cannon, San Francisco.

Henry Jorgensen, pumper, San Francisco.

Stanley Dudzick, 20, North Tonowanda, N. Y., laborer, whose back was broken when he fell from a pile of lumber.

Blast Rocks Ship

Those injured were all members of the crew except R. F. Finnegan, who was employed on the pier where the tanker was unloading.

Nearly a quarter of a million gallons of gasoline had been unloaded when the explosion rocked the ship. About 36,000 gallons remained in the tanker, making the task of subduing the flames extremely hazardous.

Captain Oscar J. Landahl, Gannon and Henry B. Crockett, insurance man, were on the bridge when the gasoline line broke. The first two ran forward and were hurled in the air by the explosion. Landahl was reported to be in a critical condition. Crockett ran toward the stern of the ship and escaped injury. Three members of the crew were hurled into the water and swam ashore. The six others injured were either blown onto the pier or to the deck of the ship.

Pouring tons of water into the burning craft, the fire department had the blaze under control within twenty minutes.

Pinchot Has Not Receded From His Original Purpose

Governor Pinchot Will Meet With Members Of Ways And Means Committee Monday

NO BACKING DOWN BY EXECUTIVE

Tendencies Shown To Swing Away From Specific Purposes Of Special Session

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot will meet with members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which holds the fate of his proposed gasoline, cigarette, billboard taxation program, and with chairmen of all house committees on Monday but, contrary to widely circulated reports, the meetings do not indicate any concessions on the governor's part.

Immediately after the governor wired all members of the Ways and Means committee to meet with him here, rumors sprang up that the executive had decided on a compromise program to halt widespread opposition to the tax measures.

Has Not Receded

Not only were such reports denied from reliable sources today but it was stressed that Governor Pinchot has not receded, in any way, from his original 19-point program and that the scheduled conferences were called with two objects, both aiming to further the program in mind. They are:

1. To convince the Ways and Means Committee that additional funds must be raised for relief and

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 21.—I was just handed a special press dispatch by the Centralia Daily Chronicle at Centralia, Wash., that China and Japan had agreed to an armistice in Manchuria.

I told you if I went over there I could have the boys out of the trenches by Christmas, but I didn't think I could do it by Thanksgiving.

I have already learned to pronounce two towns and one general's name, so I am not going to turn back now, besides I will just get there for the "after war prosperity." Remember ours?

Clubber Suspect Is Under Arrest At Youngstown

Relative Of Recently Slain Aged Woman, Arrested While Attending Funeral

POLICE START GRILLING MAN

Believed Disgruntled At Small Inheritance And Killed Woman In Fit Of Anger

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 21.—Police here held an unidentified relative of Mrs. Willis Dickey, 67 year old victim of a "clubber" killer, for questioning in connection with the aged woman's death.

The suspect, whose identity authorities declined to divulge, was taken into custody at the grave of Mrs. Dickey, a few minutes after her body was laid to rest. Detectives rushed him to police headquarters for grilling.

Was Disgruntled.

According to unofficial reports, the suspect is a young relative of the aged woman who expressed dissatisfaction because he had not received a larger inheritance under Mrs. Dickey's will. Police believe Mrs. Dickey's slayer went to her home, where he was evidently expected, tortured the woman in an attempt to force a revelation of where money was hidden in the house and killed her to prevent her cries from being heard and to avoid capture.

More Contributions Added To Relief Fund

With $267 added in the last two days, the Mayor's Relief fund total has been swelled to $1,720.

With an estimate of $1,250 weekly needed by the relief committee when distribution is started next week, it means that approximately $200 daily will be needed by the committee.

Unless the funds come in faster than they have been during the past two weeks, the amount necessary will not be realized.

Another instance of the dire need which is being found throughout the city was related today, by local charity workers.

Aid was asked for by a local family and an investigation revealed that there were ten persons in the family, none of whom are employed, and who were practically destitute.

It would be quite a task to keep a family of ten people going even in ordinary times, with the number of pairs of shoes, suits of underwear, and other garments which would have to be supplied, but with no money coming into the house, the family was in a sorry plight. They were completely outfitted with warm clothing for the winter and were given food to supply their immediate need.

If you have not made your subscription to the Mayor's Relief fund to take care of such worthy cases as these, send your check in today to L. W. McClung, city treasurer, who is treasurer of the fund.

I agree to pay the sum of..... dollars monthly on the first of each month for as many months as funds are needed by the Mayor's Relief Committee and will forward my remittances to L. W. McClung, Treasurer.

Stanley led his mother up an iron ladder to the roof and safety when a blaze swept a tenement house.

Bravely he went back into the burning building, and saved Joseph and Irene Meigh, 9 and 13 years old respectively.

Then he heard his pet Irish terrier, trapped by the blaze, bark. He dashed again into the house. When he reached the top of the ladder with the dog, he lost his balance and fell, he died a few hours later.

With the League of Nations Council meeting at 4 o'clock this afternoon in public session in an effort to find a way out of the Manchurian muddle, the Japanese Government announced it was willing to accept an armistice with China provided no attempt was made to interfere with her military activities.

A new threat of conflict developed near Chinchow, former provisonal headquarters of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, where according to Tokyo dispatches, the Chinese have massed 50,000 men in preparation for an attack.

It isn't so new, and it isn't so good, but it hasn't a hole or a tear, though it's frayed a bit where he's tipped it a lot, it's good for a lot of wear. And all through the winter he'll wear the thing, this derby of sombre hue, this iron mike from another year, the weather is sixty two.

Prayers Offered In Jury Room At Morgantown Trial

Nine Of Jurors In Dr. John Thomas West Case Wanted To See Justice Done

(International News Service)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 21.—O. L. McClure, 63-year-old member of the jury which failed to reach an agreement on the charges of misconduct brought against Dr. John Thomas West, principal of the Morgantown high school, today revealed some of the scenes which transpired as the jurors argued in an attempt to reach a verdict.

Tears welling in his eyes, McClure said:

"I want to tell everybody that there were nine of us that wanted to see justice done and the morals of our school system purged.

Prayers Offered.

"There were prayers offered in that jury room to guide the others, but I'm afraid our prayers were not answered."

County Prosecutor Albert Shuman announced that the case had again been placed on the court calendar but would not be heard during the present term.

Three other indictments in connection with the alleged immoral love affairs of the 50-year-old principal await jury action. One charges West with misconduct in connection with his relations with Miss Blanche Garfield. The others contain a misconduct charge against Miss Garfield and Miss Esther Williams.

Three local hunters who were hunting for bear in the wilds of Clarion county the other day, did not find any "bear" but they found something spelled almost like it. While going through the woods, they stumbled over someone's private liquor cache, which contained two dozen bottles of beer, buried beneath the leaves. They quenched their thirst with a bottle each, and returning to the spot in the afternoon, found that the cache had not been disturbed by anyone else, so they took another bottle. Owing to the prominence of the trio, their names are being withheld.

HICKS KILLED WHILE AT WORK

Lorhman, foreman of the electrical department, Mr. Hicks and another workman were cleaning insulators on the high voltage sub-station. The wires at this point are those coming into the plant from the Pennsylvania Power Company, and are stepped down by means of a transformer in the plant.

Had Done Work Before

Hicks had done this work before and supposedly knew where the dead line ended and where the "hot" wire began. Mr. Lohrman, the foreman, was on the ground looking up at the men cleaning the insulators, and Mr. Hicks was on a beam about twenty feet in the air.

He had finished one insulator and got up at a point about ten feet from the switch, which was out. Mr. Lohrman warned him to turn and come back but for some reason he continued on towards the lightning arrestor, walking into it. In an instant he had made contact and received the full force of the 22,000 volts. As his body dropped to the ground, workmen rushed him to the hospital and called the plant physician, Dr. H. E. Zerner, but the shock and burns were too severe to permit of much aid.

First Fatality In Years

This was the first fatality in the Shenango Plant in 15 years. The safety record of this plant is an exceptional one, standing among the leaders of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company. In 1930 there were but 8 lost time accidents during the year and thus far in 1931 there have been but six such accidents. Mr. Hicks had been employed in the Shenango Plant four years. Prior to that he was associated with the county detective as an assistant.

Since coming to New Castle from Ellwood City, where he formerly resided, Mr. Hicks had been active in the work of Boy Scouts and was the scoutmaster of Epworth Troop No. 10. His last public appearance at the head of the Scouts was on the day of the dedication of the memorial to Corporal Brady Paul, when Mr. Hicks made the presentation of an American flag to be flown over the memorial.

He and his wife were members of the First M. E. church of Ellwood City, but since coming to New Castle had attended Epworth M. E. His widow, and two daughters, Kathryn and Jean survive him.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3:30 p. m. from the family home, 431 Court street, with Dr. S. L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be made in Graceland cemetery.

room, with turkey and all the fittings on the running orders. Every gustatory switch was spiked and every crossover lined up for the run through the bill-of-fare, and every diner pulled into the Terminal of Entertainment on time.

After Dinner

Following the dinner the vets adjourned to the ballroom, where the program of entertainment was put on, with T. L. Hofmeister in charge as the trainmaster of ceremonies. Following the usual order of things there were few speeches and these short ones, the afternoon being devoted to entertainment and reunion. Four acts of entertainment were presented, among them "Senator" Lewis, a monologist; Liddel and Gibson, a comedy team; Kiki and Devere, dancers, and Rose Marie, a juvenile entertainer who sang and danced. During the dinner Teufel's Pennsylvanians provided orchestra music with H. M. Culbertson wielding the baton.

Officers of the E. & A. division were present as guests, among them H. M. Frushour, superintendent. In addition, Clyde Hill, superintendent of docks at Ashtabula, O., and J. M. Amsden, general superintendent of the M. A. Hanna Company of Cleveland, O., were special guests. They responded briefly.

Enjoy Reunion

The dinner was a splendid success, the acts and music were entertaining, but the features of this reunion, as it is of all such reunions, were the hours of fellowship spent by the veterans. No other day in the year provides such fellowship for them, for on this day they are mingling with the men who built the reputation of the E. & A., men who railroaded together in the summer sun and the winter sleet, men who speak a common language and appreciate each other for what they have been and what they are.

During the program of entertainment this afternoon a short, impressive memorial service for those who have passed on was conducted. During the year 27 veterans died, an unusually large number, and for a little time the men present today paid tribute to their memory. The list of the deceased of 1930-31 is at the bottom of this article.

The election of officers took but a few minutes, the following being selected: president, Joseph Wolf; secretary, A. E. Stahl; treasurer, C. J. Callahan.

The committee on arrangements consisted of L. C. Gleason, chairman; Joseph Wolf, C. M. Frost, J. P. Clark, C. J. Callahan, J. R. McGuire, W. T. Weschler, A. E. Stahl.

The reception committee consisted of Joseph P. Wolf, chairman; C. H. Comstock, C. C. Rogers, C. L. Rose, F. W. First, L. C. Limber, J. H. McIlvenny, John Weber, F. W. Rogers, J. L. Patterson, R. B. Lally, A. E. Hillman, I. W. Tate, W. W. Waid and R. E. O'Donnell.

New School House May Be Built In Mahoning District

School Directors To Meet At County Superintendent's Office Tonight

School directors of Mahoning township will meet at the office of County Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling, this evening, for the purpose of considering what is to be done following an incendiary fire Thursday evening, which destroyed the Dewberry school building.

A meeting of the board was held at Hillsville last night, but as County Superintendent Syling was unable to be present, no definite action was taken. The building and contents burned was insured for around $1200, according to reports.

It is understood that there is a strong sentiment in the district for the re-building of the school house. It is said that owing to its isolation, it would not be practicable to transport pupils to the Hillsville school.

If it is decided to rebuild the school house, the matter of location will also be taken up. There are some who believe that another location would be more convenient to a majority of the patrons.

One of the arguments used in favor of a new school building is that it could be erected at a very reasonable cost.

It is probable that something will also be done toward providing temporary school facilities for the children. There is some talk of utilizing the grange hall, instead of transporting the pupils to the Hillsville district.

Authorities have as yet been unable to obtain any clue to the firebug, who destroyed the building.

Private Harold Munsee of the Butler State police, sent here to investigate the Dewberry school fire said that no clue has been uncovered. A suspect was questioned last night but was released.

GUN TOTTER IS HELD FOR COURT

Elgin Hicks, negro, arrested shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at Grant and North streets by City Detective John Young and Officers Thomas Lynch and John Moore, when he was found to have a loaded 32 calibre automatic revolver in his possession, was taken before Alderman L. C. Mantz this morning, where he was charged with violation of the new firearms act. He pleaded guilty and was held for the December term of court.

A REASONABLE COST

A reasonable cost means a price that is fair to both seller and purchaser, yielding a just and fair profit to the seller, and giving full value to the purchaser. None of us want something for less than its value, neither do we want to pay more than it is worth.

Fair treatment is all that is demanded—the simple application of the Golden Rule. The promise of a cut-rate price or less cost than the real value, is looked upon by the public with doubt, and their skepticism is well founded. The reliability of the organization and their reputation for fair and honorable treatment—these are the guarantees that the public demands.

A reasonable cost to our patrons was a policy that was adopted in the organization of our business. Its application has stood the test and it is one of the policies that has developed the reputation that we now enjoy. Its application will continue, and is your assurance of a just and fair treatment in every service rendered.

Rescue Mission Provides Meals; Lodging For Work

B. J. Watkins, superintendent of the Rescue Mission, wishes to refute statements that have been going about the city that persons have been refused meals at the Rescue Mission. There has been not one person turned down who has asked for meals or lodging at the mission house.

Mr. Watkins further states that the ticket system they are inaugurating has been tried successfully the past two years in McKeesport and the executives there say that in this manner those not worthy of assistance are eliminated as these sort of transients, when they find they cannot have money, refuse to work just for their meals and lodging.

The woodpile will be ready for operation in a few days, the poles have been secured and when these are ready the men who apply for help will be given work sawing them up into usable pieces for firewood and this will be distributed to the needy.

All the Rescue Mission asks in return from those who secure meals and lodging is that they do a little work for the mission.

AGE AND EFFICIENCY

THE late William James, reputedly the greatest of American psychologists, is said to have declared that most men are old fogies at the age of 25. Bruce Barton interprets this statement to mean that by the age of 25 most men have formed permanent prejudices and have closed their minds to all new ideas.

If this theory be correct, which we do not believe, there are certainly many striking exceptions. Many men long past the age mentioned have struck out into new fields of endeavor and have developed abilities in later life of which they gave little promise in their youth.

As to the continuance of executive and creative activities to ripe old age, innumerable examples may be cited. Consider Oliver Wendell Holmes, an active member of the Supreme Court at 90; President Hindenburg of Germany at 84; Andrew W. Mellon holding one of the most important cabinet positions at 76; Thomas A. Edison, who continued at work until a short time before his recent death at 84. The list might be continued almost indefinitely.

Some former notables who prolonged their activities far beyond the allotted span of three score and ten may also be mentioned. Sophocles finished his "Oedipus at Colonus" at 90; Titian continued to paint almost to the time of his death at 99; Michaelangelo did some of his finest work after he was 80; Clemenceau wrote his memoirs at 84; Tennyson wrote his lyric masterpiece, "Crossing the Bar," after he was 80; Goethe completed "Faust" at about the same age.

But if these grand old men ever heard of psychologists it is evident that they did not take them too seriously.

MULTITUDE OF THE GREAT

In the first chapter of "Plutarch's Lives," the author of that imperishable dictionary of ancient biography says that as the geographers of that age added notes to their maps to the effect that beyond their borders nothing lay but sandy deserts or frozen seas, so he, after recounting the lives of the greatest men of the past and passing through the periods in which real history finds a footing, would hold that there is nothing beyond save prodigies and fictions.

But he lived and wrote at a time when geography had not encompassed the globe and when there was no press to keep the daily records of the race. The American comprehensive biographer has not to fear that there have been some who have lived beyond the circle of the known and so have escaped notice; his concern is only lest there should be omission of the names of any of the known who ought to be nationally remembered.

American biography cannot be circumscribed in the manner of ancient maps. There are too many men and women in the United States whose deeds or misdeeds deserve perpetuation and the new crop is always large and frequently harvested. No American community is satisfied with itself if it has not produced at least one great man or woman and most of them have justification for such contentment.

The table of contents of the first volume of a new work on American biography begins with an astronomer born in New York and ends with an immigrant Jesuit priest who attained fame as a scientist. Between those are statesmen, educators, scientists, professional folk, a meat packer, pioneer manufacturer, a desperado, a playwright, an organ designer, a baseball player, a railroad executive, a printer, a rabbi, a navigator, an engraver, a showman, a humorous journalist, an Indian fighter, a minister and a Negro leader.

BATTLE OF THE CENTURY

Agreements have just been signed for the next battle of the century. And what a battle it will be.

It will not bring two heavyweight bruisers into the prize ring, nor two golfers into competition on the links, nor two netmen face to face upon the courts. Unique among battles of this and past centuries will be the fight to the death between those two gladiators of the bridge table, Sidney S. Lenz and Ely Culbertson.

One hundred and fifty rounds they will play in New York for a purse to which both will contribute and which will go to charity. In other words, they are not fighting for a million dollar purse but to decide which is the better—the "official" method of bidding and play or the "approach-forcing" system.

Until the bout is over and the winner declared it will be an anxious time among all true devotees of the deck and deal. Will the Culbertson "psychic" carry sufficient punch to frustrate the Lenz finesse? Can the approach bid the trusted against a masterly and conservative defense? Can Culbertson gain the decision by carrying the fight to his more conventional opponent, or will Lenz, as old-timers in contract bridge claim, find his adversary's weakness before the fiftieth rubber and ultimately wear him down in the infighting?

Here is a tournament that promises to decide something for all time, to end a debate that has already been prolonged ad nauseum. Will it? Will the proponents of either side admit defeat and the superiority of the other style of play after the battle is over? Not likely.

PAPER CUPS

This craze for sanitary containers for everything that is bartered, or offered for sale or given away has now reached the stage where extravagances are being committed in its name. It has been proposed to require stores to encase their customers in germ-proof paper bags before permitting them to try on dresses. And in the capital of North Carolina they fine the corner druggist who serves soda water in clean glasses instead of paper cups that are sanitary by statute.

Many soda fountain habitues detest the paper drinking cups forced upon them by a paternalistic legislature. So dispensers, if they would please their patrons, must flout the law. There is but one way out of their dilemma. Revive the custom so long in vogue in old-time barber shops.

Visions of the old-time barber shop with shelves of inscribed shaving mugs bring visions of the soda fountain of the future. Behind the marble bar are shleves of glasses each bearing the name of the owner and sacred to his lips alone.

Something must be done. A nation accustomed for generations to taking its beverages from thick-lipped glasses, restaurant cups and steins cannot acclimatize itself to paper cups in a day.

Movie matrimonial bonds are of a filmy texture.

One thing about going to church is that the Monday papers don't mention the funeral arrangements.

All Of Us

I Stared, I Dared, I Failed
Did I Learn Anything?
I Doubt It

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I was a small boy staring into the window of a hardware store.

The small boy was fascinated.

In the window right before his eyes was a chance to win a complete set of tools. Gleaming, sharp, perfect tools. Just what a boy wanted. A saw. A hammer. A plane. A brace and a set of bits. A mitre box. A T-square. Chisels. And a tool chest, too.

If he would climb into that show window and work a jig-saw puzzle of the trade mark of the manufacturer of those tools—if he could put it together in 15 minutes—he could have his choice of two prizes. He could have those shining, splendid tools or he could have a gold safety razor. He didn't want the razor. He wanted those tools. More than anything else in all the world he wanted to feel them in his hands, ripping through wood, driving in nails, planing off little curls of pine or of oak. His hands itched for them, his soul was hungry for them.

So he climbed into the window and all flushed and anxious and nervous and wanting tremendously to win, he sat down before the puzzle—before all those friends of his outside on the sidewalk—and tried to work the puzzle. . . . And he failed! Most miserably, most humiliatingly, he did. . . . He failed and another boy won the prize. Another boy who didn't care about winning nearly as much as he did. The other boy's father was a carpenter and there were hundreds of fine tools in HIS family. The other boy was years away from shaving, too. Neither of the prizes meant much to that boy. . . . And so, since he didn't care so much, he put the puzzle together in about ten minutes and put the gold safety razor in his pocket and went cheerfully home.

* * *

Well, I learned something finally out of that experience. I learned that if you think too much about what you're going to get, you can't do nearly as well as you should. If you try too hard and tie yourself into an anxious knot, you cut your abilities in half. But if you take life easily, you can probably go farther than anyone thought you could.

We learn, or we SHOULD learn, from our humiliations. And we ought to be proud of our profitable defeats as we are of the victories that teach us nothing at all. But somehow or other when I think of that small boy who fought down his shyness and climbed into a hot window to win a chest of tools—and failed so miserably—I don't feel as cheerful about it as I might. . . . He learned something, but it wasn't much fun and the memory of it still stings a little.

BIG THINGS

You have declined to co-operate with some project.

Perhaps you had good reason.

On the other hand perhaps you imagine your failure to put your shoulder to the wheel may mean failure to the enterprise.

You laugh up your sleeve, as it were, at the futile efforts that will be made now that you are not going to take hold and boost.

But what if the undertaking should prove a rousing big success?

Wouldn't you be very likely to go around here and there trying to show how a good word from you to this and that, and your favor of the undertaking in which you did not do anything, have really put it on its feet?

Certainly that is just what you would do.

And thereby show your snobbish spirit.

Big things are not done by interference.

Big things are not done by influence.

Big things are not done by "pull."

It takes a whole-hearted spirit of accomplishment to make success.

No matter who you are, you do not make or mar the world.

If you could do that it would be a pretty small world.

Chairmanships In Congress Debated As Session Is Near

Seniority Rule, Favorable To Southern Members, Faces Some Opposition In Discussions, As Hopes Of Others Are Recognized

While Democrats of the Northern States are declared to have ambitions for chairmanships in a Democratic House, the debate as to the seniority rule, which favors Southern States, has resulted in no suggestions likely to offer satisfaction to both groups. The chief argument for the rule is that greater legislators from the South has enabled them to gain the experience that will enable them to perform such duties with efficiency. It is agreed that in many past years, Democrats, both North and South have given service without hope of the high rewards.

Pointing out that "in many cases the men who are in line for such promotion have served for a long period as ranking members of their committees and are, in consequence, thoroughly conversant with the work of their committees," the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST holds that "it is absurd for Democrats of Tammany and other members of Congress from Northern States to demand or expect Southern Democrats to agree to forego their seniority rights." Emphasizing that "the Democratic party has not had many periods of ascendancy in the national government during the past 60 years," and lauding the Wilson administration, The Post observes that "for most of the other 50 years, the South performed the greater part of the drudgery of the minority party and has been performing it continuously for the past eleven years."

Assuming the election of Representative Garner as Speaker, the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL suggests that "Garner's chairmanships, of course, will be available, and his Texas colleagues might be induced to yield him a few of their eight ranking positions." That paper finds the problem difficult and declares as to individual rights: "A distribution of the honors will not be easily achieved. Committee assignments are highly esteemed by Congressmen. It is asking a great deal for a member to renounce a long deferred honor which he has earned by service. The seniority rule, moreover, has merit. Experience and acquaintance both with the subject matter and the membership of the House and Committee are valuable aids to procedure. Strategic posts probably will be consigned to old hands, but it will be a delicate task to show a ranking Democrat why he should relinquish his claim."

The men who have won their places by long service, in the opinion of the YAKIMA MORNING HERALD, "will not be likely to step aside for Democrats from the North and West, without a bitterness of feeling that might be reflected later in voting on legislation." The Herald agrees that "possibilities of victory in the presidential election next year may dictate that the organization of the House, from the Democratic view, should be arranged on a national basis, but we doubt very much whether the Southern representatives will abdicate for their brethren from the North and West."

The ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC thinks that "Representative Garner will find his powers of conciliation taxed to the utmost to hold the sectional rivalry within bounds."

"Law is law and rule is rule," declares the CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL. "Were conditions reversed, there would be no complaint coming from north of that famous line which separates the country into North and South. It is but natural that Southern Democrats should claim the reward for party fealty maintained through good and bad report. The other side would do the same under similar circumstances, and account it a piece of political righteousness, in which the rewards went to the most deserving and according to Mr. Hoyle as applied to politics. But a political victory without substantial rewards thereof—bah."

Observing that "Democratic Representatives from other sections are reported restless," the CHARLOTTE NEWS comments: "Less than one-half of the total Democratic membership of the new House will come from the South. It will be recalled that in 1909 twenty-two Democrats, led by Representative Fitzgerald, of New York, refused to vote for the changes in the House rules proposed by the Democratic organization, led by Champ Clark, and supported by many of the insurgent Republicans. As a result, the so-called 'Fitzgerald Compromise' was adopted, which curbed 'Cannonism' only slightly."

Demand for organization of the House "on a national scale" is made by the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER, and the PROVIDENCE BULLETIN offers the judgment as to the present situation: "Democrats from other sections of the land do not accept this situation with resignation; this is particularly true of the Eastern branch. If the South insists on taking all the chairmanships, standing on its privileges, the red banner of party revolt will be unfurled and old wounds opened. Fortunately for the party it has in Representative Garner a man of considerable political brains, one whose tendency is on the side of common sense and a leader of long experience. Upon how well he handles his job depends, to a considerable extent, the hope of the party for success in the next election."

Just Folks

AN UNUSUAL VISITOR

He dropped into my office with a grin upon his face.
He talked about the weather and the college football race.
He asked about the family and told the latest joke.
But never mentioned anyone who'd suddenly gone broke.

He talked of books and pictures and the play he'd been to see.
A clever quip his boy had made he passed along to me.
He praised the suit of clothes I wore and asked me what it cost.
But he never said a word about the money he had lost.

He was with me twenty minutes, chuckling gayly while he stayed
O'er the memory of some silly little blunder he had made.
He reminded me that tulips must be planted in the fall,
But calamity and tragedy he mentioned not at all.

I thought it rather curious when he had come and gone.
He must have had some tales of woe, but didn't pass them on.
For nowadays it seems to me that every man I meet
Has something new in misery and moaning to repeat.

And so I write these lines for him who had his share of woe
But still could talk of other things and let his troubles go.
I was happier for his visit—in a world that's sick with doubt.
'Twas good to meet a man who wasn't spreading gloom about.

Rotarians Are Grange Guests

Dinner Is Enjoyed At Liberty Grange Hall Last Night

SPECIAL FEATURES MARK OCCASION

Grange frolics come and go in the lives of local Rotarians and their ladies, but even the passing of time won't dull the memories of the delicious chicken dinner and jovial social hours they enjoyed at Liberty Grange hall, Harlansburg road, last night.

In fact, every grange dinner the club has shared still hold a place in the recollections of the men—and the Rotary Anns haven't forgotten them either. Last night's menu and entertainment was just another of those affairs that seem to gain an everlasting hold on a person's mental memory pad.

Sixty For Dinner

There were 60 Rotary men and their wives present when dinner was served by the grange ladies at 7 o'clock. The tables were attractively decorated for the occasion.

Following dinner came the fun performances, when everyone joined in for games of bingo and other things. They sang and that added a snap to the atmosphere. Comic and valuable prizes were given out to the winners in the games.

A charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor was made against him by police and he gave bail for his appearance for a hearing before the mayor.

According to the story at the police station, Butia had his car parked on Pennsylvania avenue, while visiting a friend, when he heard a terrific crash and rushing out found that his machine had been struck by the car of Trover and forced down the street against a pole, being somewhat damaged.

Trover's car was across the street against a fence which it had run into and damaged. Trover started up his car and went a short distance and into the fence again.

He then got out of his car and as he did so a pop bottle dropped out. It was about half full of moonshine. Trover demanded its return and when Butia, who had picked it up refused to do so, Trover chased him. The police were then called and his arrest followed.

Toy Committees To Meet Tuesday

McBride Post And Auxiliary To Complete Plans At Meeting Next Week

Plans for the gathering of toys by the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and their auxiliary, will be completed at a meeting to be held in the Legion Home Association Building, Tuesday evening, November 24, at 8 o'clock.

The same idea as carried out in the successful handling of this project last Christmas by the Vets, will be followed again this year, but it is expected to broaden the scope of the activity.

Not only will the children of veterans who are in need of assistance be aided, but children of all unemployed will be aided as long as the supply of toys lasts.

The aid of Troops 15 and 17, Boy Scouts, has been enlisted and they will help gather and distribute the articles. Permission has been given to use a room in the basement of the First Presbyterian church where the toys will be assembled and if any are in need of repair, they will be renewed by the committee.

Those who have been named on the McBride Post committee by General Chairman F. L. Wimer, are J. P. Morgan, W. H. Clapie, James A. Bell, George Christoph, Clarence A. Leslie, A. F. Miller, Ed. Woods, "Red" Nolan, Garland R. Crites, J. M. Marshall, J. W. King, Roy Evans and Commander John LaRue.

The Auxiliary committee consists of Mesdames Maud Nolan, Irene Cage, Catherine Ayers, Frannie Davis, Lucy Wooley, Georgette Wimer, Ada Miller, LaRue King and Evelyn Woods, president.

Plans will be set in motion for the immediate collection of articles, so that any which are in need of minor repairs, may be taken care of.

Persons who have usable toys which they would like to contribute to this worthy endeavor are asked to call J. P. Morgan, phone 4121-J.

But a popular grouch isn't enough to win an election unless there is a leader who shares it.

Finds Horseshoe In Trunk Of Apple Tree

Because youngsters of the neighborhood climbed over the fense into his garden and climbed on a tree thus endangering their lives, Frank Colapietro of Sheep Hill recently cut down an old apple tree and made an unusual discovery.

After chopping the tree to the ground the Sheep Hill resident divided the arbre in different parts and commenced to saw the trunk which he is now using for fire wood.

Near the center of the tree the saw would not operate and he was forced to use a hatchet. He discovered a horseshoe imbedded in the tree trunk. The tree was 16 years old and how the horseshoe got in the tree in all these years is a puzzle to Mr. Colapietri as well as many others of that vicinity.

The youngsters annually performed their stunt of gathering apples on the tree. In the past few years the tree has shown signs of decaying and Mr. Colapietro thought it best to cut it down before it fell

Book Week Play Presented Friday

Members Of Highland Parent-Teacher Association Take Part In Dramatization

The auditorium of the Senior High School was filled Friday evening with an audience highly appreciative of the dramatic talent displayed by members of the Highland Parent-Teacher Association when they presented "The Enchanted Book Shelf" a playlet observing National Book Week.

Preceding the rising of the curtain John E. Paton and his orchestra from the George Washington Junior High School entertained with many selections.

As the curtain arose on the performance there on the stage were two book fairies, Gay, portrayed by Mrs. Ed Connery, and Grave, portrayed by Mrs. P. H. Bridenbaugh, who announced that they would have the characters out of certain books come to life for the benefit of the earth people.

A large book, "The Birds Christmas Carol" was then opened by the fairies and from this stepped forth Mrs. Ruggles and her nine children. Mrs. Ruggles was most realistically portrayed by Mrs. John Elliott and the children were: Sarah Maud, Mrs. Glenn Berry, Peter, Mrs. R. L. Mann, Kitty, Mrs. A. R. Batten, Peoria, Mrs. Bruce Love, Cornelius, Mrs. James Foster, Elly, Mrs. A. C. Dietterle, Susan, Miss Pearl Hutchinson, Clement, Mrs. J. H. Doyle, Larry, Mrs. Clyde Brest.

Robin Hood

As the fairies presented the second book, "Robin Hood" out from its pages stepped the characters that so delight the boys and girls as well as the grown ups.

Mrs. Wayne Stitzinger was exceptionally good in the part of the brave Robin Hood and the part of Bishop of Nottingham was most capably taken by Mrs. Lawrence Thompson: the other characters were: Maid Marian, Mrs. Roy Conway, Little John, Mrs. A. M. Barnette, First Archer, Mrs. Guy McCracken, Second Archer, Mrs. Louis Sandler, Fiddler, Michael Caruso, Maids, Mrs. W. A. Margraf, Miss Helen Allen, Bishop's Servant, Mrs. L. W. Crossman, Inn Keeper's Wife, Miss Matilda Coley.

Next, the fairies brought forth the poems of James Whitcomb Riley and as Miss Hutchinson, dramatics teacher of Highland school read, "Little Orphan Annie," "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," "Our Hired Girl" and 'Old Aunt Mary' these characters stepped forth in the person of Miss Jean Jackson, Mrs. Ernest Stitzinger, Mrs. William Atkinson and Mrs. J. R. Mead.

Mark Twain's book "Tom Sawyer" was then brought out and from its pages stepped forth those much loved characters, Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer and an episode in the book was given by Mrs. J. F. Rentz as "Huck" and Miss Eva Smith as "Tom."

Closing Episode

Again the fairies drew forth another book, this time 'Alice in Wonderland" and to the delight of the audience a scene was enacted from this with the characters: Alice, Mrs. Roger Roland, The March Hare, Mrs. C. E. Allen, The Mad Hatter, Mrs. Ed. C. Wilson, The Duchess, Mrs. Louis Kohn, The Queen of Hearts, Mrs. J. H. Templeton, The King of Hearts, Mrs. Jesse McCommon, First Gardener, Mrs. E. W. Dufford, Second Gardener, Mrs. Burr Rogers, First Soldier, Mrs. F. A. Howland, Second Soldier, Mrs. B. G. Welch.

Mrs. H. W. McKee Jr. is president of the Highland P. T. A. and she oversaw the arrangements, with Mrs. R. A. Eckles as the general chairman; Miss Pearl Hutchinson, coach; Mrs. W. P. Welch, music; Mrs. William Woodworth, costumes: Mrs. Roy Conway, properties; Mrs. J. F. Rentz tickets; Mrs. Harold Heck, candy; Miss Alma Locke, ushers; book exhibits, Miss Nancy McCaslin and Miss Jean Jackson, posters.

Mrs. Robert Fleming was the pianiste for the production and Michael Caruse, the violinist.

Women Make Over Hundred Gallons Of Apple Butter

Garden Club And Charities Project Yield Added Supply For Larder

Over one hundred gallons of apple butter, 110 to be exact, were made this week by a group of Sheep Hill women, under the direction of the Garden Club, the Red Cross, and the Associated Charities.

The project was carriedout at the home of Mrs. Cosimo Bulisco and around twenty-five women from the neighborhood of Martha street were engaged throughout the operation, which took the greater part of three days to complete.

During all this time, one group of women pared the apples, while the others took turns at stirring the kettles, three big copper vessels with a capacity of 55 gallons in constant use.

Half the finished product was turned over to the women who worked on the project, while the remainder was turned over to the Mayor's Relief Committee and is now in storage at the Carnegie Auditorium, where all the food which will be distributed to the unemployed starting next week, will be given out.

Forty-five bushels of apples were used up by the women in making the apple butter, which will add a toothsome and nourishing condiment to the necessarily meager menu this winter.

Westfield Grange was represented by its lecturer Merle Leslie, who responded on the program with a selection, "A Japanese School Boy's Essay on a Banana." Visiting from this grange were Mrs. Merle Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leslie and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fullerton.

East Brook Grange was represented by Mrs. W. O. Mayberry and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lindsay. Mrs. Mayberry responded on the program with a reading entitled "A School Idyl."

New Bedford Grange was represented by its lecturer Mrs. Irwin Ropp. The visitors from this grange were Mrs. George Wortman, Elizabeth and Margaret Ropp and Miss Wortman. Elizabeth Ropp responded with a solo "Saucy Sue" and a Mother Goose Song.

Other visitors of the occasion were County Agent and Mrs. Harold R. McCulloch. Mr. McCulloch gave a very interesting address on matters pertaining to the farm crops.

State Deputy W. S. Fullerton gave a talk on "Grange Improvement and Co-operation and Grange Membership." He said that all should be known as Grangers by their work and not in name only.

Mrs. Thomas Lindsey was a special guest and responded in a very pleasing manner with a reading "The Ball Game," which was greatly enjoyed by all those present. New Teletypewriter Service Provided

Bell Telephone Company Announces New Service To Be Available

A new communication service is made available today by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, the American Telephone & Telegraph company and the other associated companies in the Bell system. This new service consists in the establishment and operation of central switching exchanges for teletypewriters—machines that typewrite electrically over wires to distant teletypewriters. Any subscriber to this service can obtain connection with the teletypewriter of any other subscriber to the service within the same city or in a distant city, and this will permit the immediate transmission of letters, typewritten statements or other information between two subscribers. In effect, the method used for inter-connection of the instruments is the same as that now employed in the telephone system.

The present teletypewriter service of the Bell system is furnished only in connection with private wires which are not connected to central switching points. This private wire service, now widely used for inter-office communication, will be continued as heretofore. The new switching service through teletypewriter exchange is now possible because of developments in apparatus and operation. They permit intercommunication by teletypewriter on a nation-wide basis just as the development of switchboard made possible the inter-connection of telephone instruments.

The new teletypewriter service will thus have the flexibility that characterizes the regular telephone service of the Bell companies. The establishment of switching offices similar to telephone exchanges enables subscribers to the new service to call and secure connections just as they do for local and long distance telephone comversation. While their teletypewriter lines are connected they may send or receive typed messages as desired.

Soon after the American Telephone & Telegraph company was organized to develop long distance service it became apparent that the telephone wire system could be adapted to provide circuits to concerns needing private wire facilities.

The first line furnished connected the New York and Boston offices of S. M. Weld & Co. and was put in service on December 9, 1887. As the long distance circuits were extended the private wire service grew rapidly among those having need for constant communication with distant branches or correspondents, such as banks, brokers or press associations. The scope of the service was immediately widened when the teletypewriters began to be used in 1915. Within the past five years there has been a marked increase in the number of industrial concerns using them and the variety of uses they have found for them. At the beginning of 1931 the Bell sytem was furnishing 10,500 teletypewriters machines utilizing 48 per cent of its private line wire mileage in their service.

PLEA MADE TO RE-OPEN BANKS

West Virginia State Auditor Makes Appeal For Banks Of State To Re-Open

(International News Service)

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 21.—Financial leaders today were mulling over the plea of State Auditor E. C. Lawson for a state-wide movement for reopening of banks which were solvent at the time of closing.

With few exceptions, Lawson declared in a statement issued here, the banks of West Virginia which have closed recently were solvent when such action was taken. Many closings, he asserted, were brought on by "fear and baseless rumors, carried on by gossip-mongers".

Pointing out that banks here had taken the initiative in reopening by agreeing with depositors to waive withdrawal rights, Lawson urged extension of the "Morgantown plan" throughout the state.

FORM NEW BANK AT TOLEDO, OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—Formation of a new bank by a committee representing depositors, creditors and stockholders of three Toledo banks now in liquidation has been approved by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman of Ohio.

Observations In 7th Ward

How many 1917 model automobiles are in as good condition as the big red truck at the seventh ward fire station? Not many! But the best of cars can get in trouble and this big truck required the services of a mechanic Friday afternoon. The gaskets rebelled and were given a little treatment.

When the huge tires on this truck wear out, it is going to mean several hundred dollars worth of expense and a lot of work. As the size tire of which the truck is equipped is no longer manufactured, the wheels will have to be cut to a smaller size. And that will be no easy job.

They say the Christmas cantata, which will be presented on Sunday, December 20 at the Methodist church, will be quite worth hearing. It is being directed by Loy Gwin.

J. A. Prater placed a green cotton boll in the sun a short time ago. It ripened and has opened, displaying flimsy white cotton.

That drinking fountain at the corner of Wabash avenue and North Liberty street, it sure worries one. The fountain flows and can't be stopped and the bowl is stopped up and flooding over.

The school district truck stopped at the Mahoning school building yesterday afternoon and deposited a gray stone fireplace there. (Not really stone, but beaverboard for theatrical purposes.)

L. S. C. Book Club Meets On Friday

Mrs. Ada Robinson entertained members of the L. S. C. Book club on Friday evening at her home at Sunnyside, and the event was one of the most pleasant in some time.

Bridge was a pleasant diversion of the evening. The hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Clark, served a delicious lunch at an appropriate time.

Mrs. Bert Smith of Clayton street, will entertain the club on Friday evening, December 18 at a Christmas dinner.

ST. LUCY'S CHURCH

Corner of North Cedar street and East Wabash avenue. Rev. Fr. S. Ippolito, pastor. Masses Sunday morning at 8:30 and 10:30. Sunday school at 2:00 p. m.

PAGLEY RETURNING

Clarence Pagley is returning to his home in Cleveland, O., this evening after a visit with relatives in this part of New Castle.

AFTERNOON VISITORS

Charles Conti and A. R. Griffin, of Youngstown, Ohio, were visitors in the seventh ward on Friday afternoon.

The work of filling in the cracks on Atlantic avenue with tar preparation covered with sand, was completed this week by workmen engaged for the purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Bartlett, of Youngstown, Ohio, who had been visiting in Pittsburgh, called on local friends Friday night.

NEW FIRE HYDRANT

A new fire hydrant was erected by the city in front of home number 209 West Madison avenue Friday morning.

William J. Adams Accused By Victim Of Recent Holdup

Denies Charge Made Against Him By John Powell Of North Jefferson Street

William J. Adams, 1004 Croton avenue, was arrested Friday afternoon by Officer John Moore, who located him on Croton avenue, as a result of the investigation that has been made in the recent hold-up in which John Powell of 1107 North Jefferson street was the victim and reported to the police that he had been relieved of $240 in cash and other valuables by two men. The hold-up occurred a few days ago at an alley near Euclid avenue and North Jefferson street.

Investigation by the police developed the fact, the police state, that Adams went up North Jefferson street on the 11 o'clock bus on the night of the hold-up. Powell was on the same bus and he got off first. Adams and another man got off after Powell. It was shortly after this that Powell was held up.

Following the arrest of Adams Friday afternoon Powell was notified and on his arrival at the police station identified Adams as one of the men who held him up, police report.

Adams was taken before Alderman L. C. Mantz this morning, where he was charged with highway robbery by John Powell. In default of bail he was remanded to the county jail pending a hearing on Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Prominent among the residents of this district approximately a hundred years ago was Dr. Charles T. Whipp, a native of the state of New York and a civil engineer by profession, although he had previously practiced medicine. He made his first visit to New Castle about 1833, coming as principal engineer on the Beaver Division of the Erie Extension canal. In 1834, he made his permanent residence in this district, being about fifty years of age at the time. He purchased a large tract of land near the village of Croton, from Moses Crow, and lived on it until his death, which occurred about 1855-6. His residence was outside the borough of New Castle and for that reason he never figured in local politics, but he was always a prominent man in the community and connected with various enterprises. A short time before his death, he was one of the original incorporators of the Bank of New Castle, which was organized in 1855. He was also president of the board of trustees of the New Castle Female Seminary in 1838. He left quite a large amount of property at the time of his death. He never practiced medicine after coming to Western Pennsylvania.

EMPLOYERS ASKED TO CALL Y. W. C. A. WHEN NEEDING HELP

If you need a house-maid, office girl, clerk or nurse, call the employment bureau of the local Young Women's Christian Association.

This bureau, in charge of Miss Emma Moore, executive of the Y. W. International Institute, is endeavoring to find jobs for each of the women and girls who have made applications. If all individuals or business firms who have work, even temporary work for women, will call the Y. W. C. A. it will mean a great deal to the many women out of work.

Kitchens are so convenient now that a housekeeper needs nothing more except a degree in electrical engineering.—The Glendale News-Press.

Kellogg Contends Pressure Needed In Eastern Strife

Pressure Of Public Opinion Should Be Applied On China And Japan To End Warfare

(International News Service)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 21.—Pressure of public opinion should be applied on China and Japan if present negotiations to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Manchurian dispute fail, it was declared here today by Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, and co-author of the Kellogg-Briand Peace Pact.

The distinguished statesman furthermore sharply criticized secret diplomacy in the international negotiations aimed at ending the Manchurian crisis. Only through open proceedings could the desired peace be effected, he declared.

Pay Up Taxes In Mercer County

Average Number Have Made Payment, County Treasurer Shows

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 21.—Sixty-four percent of the county taxes are paid for the year 1931 reports County Treasurer G. R. McQuiston who states that this is about the average amount of tax paid at this stage of collection.

On and after January 1 tax goes to a penalty. It is expected that the major portion of it will be paid before this time arrives. Tax payments have kept up in wonderful shape, better than was surmised. The commissioners are wisely not making any promises of money for any specific purpose until the depression is over. They have already given the poor directors $100,000 for home and outside relief work and expect to give them whatever additional amounts may be necessary. This means that any budget for road making is out of the question until there is a return to normalcy.

NON-RESIDENTS HUNT

Wallace's first wife died in 1918, he was divorced from his second in 1924, and his third spouse died last November.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Epicures of metropolitan oddity turn first on Sundays to the want ad sections of the papers. There, in the modest confessional of six-point type, are to be found flashes of the city's self nowhere else visible. Your real New Yorker goes to the want adds to document himself on his native heath, not to the easy sophistication of weekly smart-charts.

Since ads are paid for, by a variety of people who may compose their own copy, it is curious how each paper should have its highly individual style of want ad space.

One morning paper has long been noted for its auctioneers' and antique dealers' listings; another seems to specialize in lengthy and sedate squibs setting forth the merits of elderly executives seeking placement. An afternoon sheet appears to encourage the latent poesy in its want ad composers. Here you read about "nests fit for poets' dreams" and "cunning little cottages by the side of the road."

There is the evening rag which holds ascendancy in the listings of furnished rooms only, and there is the morning paper which quite recently has begun to run more want ads of every description than any of its rivals. The literary style in the latter is terse, businesslike, to the point.

From a recent section:

"ENTIRE studio contents, paintings, furniture, wall hangings, 80 rare Buddhas, ikons, occult subjects; sacrifice. Count Collonna Walewski."

Immortal short stories have been built from meagerer suggestions. Indeed, no author can afford to neglect the drama and plot of the classified sections. Lost and found departments make, for me, livelier reading than most news stories—even now that the old ominous phrase, "no questions asked," has been deleted from the better journals.

TIMES SQUARE INTERLUDE

Two oxen, drawing a cartload of potatoes, clumped from Times Square the other morning to 51st street, and covered the congested area in about the same time as a taxicab. The spuds, a gift from Governor Gardiner of Maine to President Hoover, will be hauled thus to Washington. Comments along the way were revelatory of the Broadway mind. Onlookers were convinced that it was a publicity stunt, although they were at a loss to guess exactly what for—although one young man was overheard to declare that the rustic team and load was in advertisement of a new movie to be called "Hot Potatoes," starring the four Marx brothers.

Bucky Lawless Defeats Rose

Unanimous Decision Given Lawless After Fans See Good Scrap

VORGONI PUTS FLICK TO SLEEP

Bucky Lawless of Syracuse defeated Billy Rose of Cincinnati in 10 fast rounds at the Castle bowl last night but in so doing he sustained a gash above his right eye and a cut across the bridge of his nose that may force him to ask for a postponement of his battle with Welterweight Champion Lou Brillard. November 27, at Boston.

It was a good fight from start to finish and while the battle contained only one knockdown, both welters were staggered at times. Rose's ability to assimilate punishment and keep plunging in for more caught the fancy of the crowd and when the decision, which was unanimous, was given Lawless, a volley of boohing was fired at the officials.

Lawless captured the first, second, third, sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth chapters while Rose won the fourth, fifth and seventh. While on the surface it appeared that Lawless had sustained the most damage due to the two gashes, both were old wounds and the fact remains that Mr. Rose's "tummy" was battered more viciously than any fighter who has yet appeared at the bowl.

Lawless took the first round and had Rose wobbly in the second but allowed Billy to recover. However, a left to the head caused a cut above Lawless right eye. In the third Bucky continually struck a left hook into Rose's face and against his body but Rose came back strong in the fourth and took the session by a fat margin.

More Is Gashed

When the fifth opened they fought viciously. Lawless turned Rose in a semi-circle with a right to the jaw but he kept boring in and uppercut to the stomach put lefts to the jaw and finally caused a deep gash across the bridge of Lawless's nose which bled profusely.

The blood from his right eye and nose caused a gory sight and it handicapped him. Rose kept piling in and took the round. Lawless put seven consecutive left hooks or crosses to Rose's face as soon as the sixth chapter opened. In fact he landed almost at will and had a big margin.

The licking Rose took in the round did not dampen his ardor whatsoever and he came in swinging when the seventh opened. A right staggered Lawless and a couple more to the face caused the red to run. Rose worked hard to put over a finisher.

Lawless received a salvo of boohs when he spun Rose. He paid scant attention to the boohing and put a left jab to the face and the round ended when Rose sent a right to the jaw. Rose had a big edge in the round but Bucky played havoc with Rose in the eighth.

He sent left following left to some portion of Rose's head or frame and Billy couldn't stop them. In fact in the eighth Rose failed to land more than two or three clean punches and while he tried the Syracuse fighter blocked all Rose's leads or beat him to the punch.

Drops Cincinnatian

The first part of the ninth was practically even but as the latter portion came Lawless superior boxing ability and footwork asserted itself and he took the round. The tenth and last round opened with a clinch but they went to it hammer and tongs.

The honors were about even until Lawless dropped Rose with a right to the jaw. The sturdy blonde from Cincinnati got up before Referee George Chip could start a count and before Rose started moving for a neutral corner.

He fell into a clinch and when they were parted rights and lefts were exchanged to the head and the round went to Lawless. When the slips of the judges were read the decision was unanimously for Bucky Lawless but the crowd did not like the award.

Frankie Stellmack of Cleveland and Bobby Stewart of Chicago fought a six round draw. They are lightweights. Stewart was aggressive and tried hard to get to Stellmack but the Clevelander was foxy and blocked the colored boy's attempts. There was plenty of action but no knockdowns.

Eddie Flick, 133, heard the birdies sing last night when Angelo Vorgoni, 135, of Pittsburgh clipped him in the third round. He had made one trip to the floor in the second but got up at the count of nine. The bell came to his rescue. In the third he was floored with a right. The towel sailed into the right.

The first bout brought together Petey John, 120¼ and Bobby Rowe, 121, of Pittsburgh. It was a good scrap and the decision was a draw.

George Chip was the referee, Pete Capitola the timekeeper and the judge were Tommy Jones and Jim Dunn.

The show was the first staged by Apples Meyers who has leased the bowl for a period of six months. Attendance was low but will probably pick up as the bouts continue.

City-County Floor League Is Organized

Nine Teams Represented At Meeting Held Friday Night—Plans Are Advanced

Considerable enthusiasm for the city-county basketball league was shown last night at a meeting held at the Sears, Roebuck & Co. store with Tully Caiazza in charge. Nine teams have signified their intention of joining the league, with a possibility that another team will be secured to make it a ten-team league. The league may be divided into two sections.

The following teams were represented: Sacred Hearts,, Hillsville, Polish Falcons, Mahonings, New Wilmington, Mt. Jackson, Bessemer, Wampum and Ellwood City.

The following were suggested as officials to handle the league games: Neyman, Bruce Franklin, Billy Hood, W. Hutchinson, Mickey Huff, "Red" McIntosh, Buckingham and Francis Uhle. U. S. G. A. Adopts New Weight Ball For 1932 Golfers

Effective January 1, 1932, New Size Golf Ball Will Be Legally Used

(International News Service)

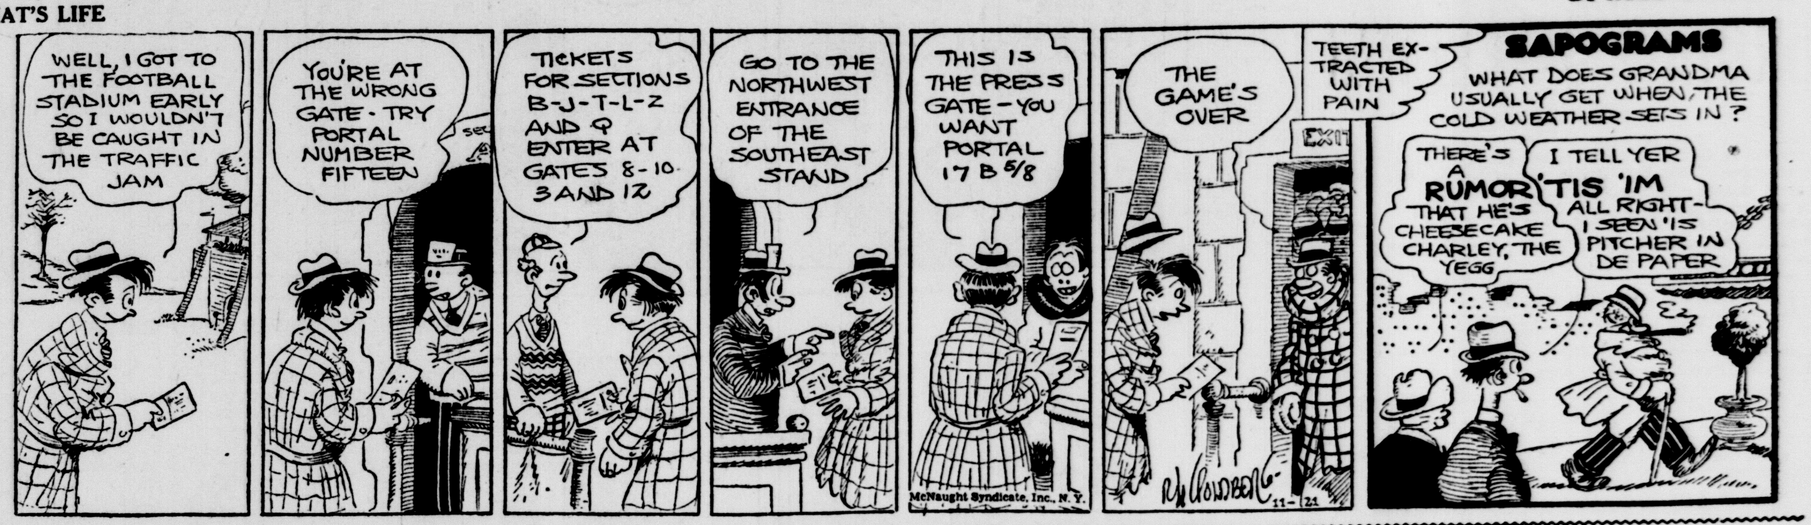

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The United States Golf Association today adopted the "new" ball which combines the size of the "ballooner" and the weight of the old one.

"Becoming effective January 1, 1932, the official golf ball, as recognized by the executive committee of the U. S. G. A., will be in weight no more than 1.62 and in diameter no more than 1.68," President H. H. Ramsay of the association said.

Some golfers experienced trouble in guiding the ball in the wind during the past year, and Ramsay expressed his hope that the adoption of the heavier ball would alleviate this.

Notre Dame-Harvard Face Tests Today In Important Grid Games

Irish Favored To Defeat Southern California—Harvard Picked To Topple Yale

Fordham Liked Over Bucknell—Army Meeting Ursinus Today

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Like fighting legions drilled to the point of perfection, crack elevens of the nation go over the top today in games that will make or break them for highest football honors.

At South Bend, Ind., Notre Dame, unbeaten in thre seasons, meets the supreme test in Southern California's Trojans, and Harvard battles Yale at Cambridge in a traditionweighted feud in the two outstanding tilts of the afternoon.

Irish Favored.

Notre Dame, Harvard and Tulane are generally liked over their formidable opponents, with Tulane almost certain of victory.

Eventually Notre Dame is going to be whipped and today may bring the big upset. But why the Irish should not win decisively has yet to be explained successfully.

They have met and defeated more formidable opponents than the Trojans this season and they appear to be a faster, more versatile eleven than the team from Los Angeles. Victory today, providing they win games the rest of the season, which do not loom as tough as this afternoon's, means another national championship for Notre Dame's great Ramblers.

Harvard Needs Victory.

Harvard can establish itself as one of the finest teams in the land and the best in the east with a triumph, giving the Crimson an unsullied 1931 slate.

California ought to be able to just take it from Stanford.

In the mid-west a superb Northwester team is rated better than Iowa and Michigan may struggle to a triumph over Minnesota.

Nebraska and Iowa State battle at Lincoln and Nebraska gets the call. Kansas looks better than Missouri.

Fordham Favored.

In New York City, Fordham is favored over Bucknell and Columbia may rise to the heights again as it did against Dartmouth and flip Syracuse.

Army has a breather at West Point in Ursinus and Southern Methodist has every right to torpedo the Navy at Annapolis.

Georgetown gets the barest edge over Villanova at Villanova and West Virginia looks superior to Penn State at State College; Georgai will beat Alabama Poly at Columbus and Florida rates over Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

In an intersectional game at Denver, a strong eastern eleven, Temple, should defeat Denver. If Temple loses, blame it on the altitude.

Intra-Mural Race At Washington Hi Passes Half Mark

Entering into the second round of play, George Washington junior high school's spirited intra-mural basketball tournament today had produced some new results insofar as floor teams are concerned.

The 9A2 team defeated the 9A3's by a score of 15-6. George of the 9A2's was the star of the game with four baskets to his credit. Then again, 9B5 came from behind at the half to beat 9B3, 33 to 19, 9B3 failed to score during the last quarter. Captain Tomelleo of the 9B5's took honors here with seven buckets and two pointers from the foul line. Dunlap and Pratt were shining lights of the losers with nine and eight points, respectively.

Coach Daniel Carroll started varsity practice this week with a squad of 50 boys.

Athletic Policy At Yale Changes

Alumni At Yale Will Not Have So Much Say-So About How Things Are Run

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—A new deal was ordered today in control of athletics at Yale University, with alumni, who have had the chief say-so ever since the halcyon days of Walter Camp, yielding the trump hand to the faculty. President James Rowland Angell, himself one of the new members of the projected board of control, announced that the changes at a meeting of the alumni board executive committee.

The plan in brief calls for reduction from six to two of alumni representation on board of control, reduction from 24 to 12 of the total membership, reduction from seven to four of the executive committee, and abolition of the office of director of athletics.

True, the job of director, held now by John M. Cates, is not wiped out in so many words, but is combined with that of chairman of the board of control, which now becomes purely a faculty position. What is to become of Cates, however, has not yet been indicated.

Professor R. Selden Rose holds the chairmanship at present, but whether he will absorb the Cates post is likewise unknown.

Fans Favor Junior High Floor For Basketball Games

Would Like To Have Senior High Games Played On Washington Floor

If the basketball fans had the "say so" on what floor the New Castle high school cagers should use this season, the followers would likely suggest using the George Washington Junior high court instead of the Senior high floor. Several days ago The News printed a coupon on the sport page asking the fans to take their pick of the floors.

For the past two days the coupons have been rolling into the office of The News. There are a few who have selected the Senior high gymnasium but about three-fourths of fans pick the Junior high floor. The poll of sentiment was mainly held to see what the fans wanted.

The question of which floor the high school quintet will prance this winter is left up to the Athletic Council of the city which will vote sometime this month or early next month.

Central Press Sports Editor

Southern California—at this writing—has more outstanding candidates for the All-American football team than any other squad. Yet, it is quite possible that few "All" pickers will select a Trojan to fill out their selections.

This paradox is caused by the fact that while the Trojans have at least six stars worthy of anyone's attention, their rivals with other elevens whose ability seems equal, possibly superior, to that of the Southern Californians.

U. S. C.'s candidates are Orv Mohler and Gaius Shaver, Both quarterbacks and fine ones; Ernie Pickert, the brilliant blocking and ball running halfback; Jim Music, a fine fullback; the fast, clever Garrett Arbelbide at end, and Bob Hall, a powerful tackle.

* * *

Mohler, the Trojans' regular quarterback, naturally would receive choice over Shaver, but there are many coast observers who prefer Gus. However, for either of these to land All-American selection they must beat out such luminaries as Barry Wood, Harvard; Ralph Hewitt, Columbia; Austin Downes, Georgia; Carl Cramer, Ohio State; Speed Mason, Southern Methodist, and others.

Picking Pinckert for one of your All-American halfbacks you'd have to discard two of a great trio—Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame; Pug Rentner, Northwestern, and Eugene McEver, Tennessee. And that's not mentioning Bob Monnett, Michigan State; Don Zimmerman, Tulane; Albie Booth, Yale; Warren Heller, Pittsburgh, and a host of others.

Musick has plenty tough opposition, too, in Jack Roberts, Georgia; Jack Manders, Minnesota; George Melinkovitch, Notre Dame; Carl Perina, Penn.

* * *

There's a decided Dixie tint to the 1931 layout of ends. Gerry Dalrymple, Tulane, and "Catfish" Smith, Georgia, will get a lot of votes. George Ellert, Syracuse; Eddie Hirschberg, Pittsbrugh; Ray Moss, Purdue—would you put Arbelbide above them?

Lastly there's Bob Hall who has been doing such yeoman service for Southern California at tackle.

And speaking of tackles—many will pick Northwestern's pair as the two "All" men for these positions. Dallas Marvil and Jack Riley arte stonewalls of that apparently impregnable Northwestern line. Other outstanding tackles of the year include Jim MacMurdo, Pittsburgh; Joe Kurth, Notre Dame; Chris Martinex-Zorilla, Cornell; Hugh Rhea, Nebraska, and Ernie Concannon, New Yory U.

Canzoneri Wins Slugging Match From Chocolate

New York Fans Sit In On Best Fight Staged In Madison Square Garden For Years

BOTH FIGHTERS WERE DETERMINED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Tony Canzoneri lingers on today as lightweight champion of the world, but only because of dauntless courage, superlative stamina and the unquenchable fires of battle.

He gained a 15-round decision—not unanimous and loudly booed as well as wildly cheered—from Kid Chocolate last night after one of the most sensational slugging brawls seen in New York in many years.

Terrific Slugging

Referee Willie Lewis and Judge Joe Angello voted for Tony; Judge Charles F. Mathison cast for the Cuban negro. The opinion was divided in the press box, but the verdict was almost a unit for Canzoneri, the majority giving him eight rounds, Chocolate four and the others even

The youngsters started off with the speed of a locomotive and the fury of suddenly unleashed and starving tigers, tossing science into complete discard, they concentrated all they had in the effort for a whirlwind knockout.

The negro, putting on a display of raw courage that equalled that of the champion, fought back in desperation. Unafraid, and uncaring of the danger of a possible knockout, he stood toe-to-toe with the man who outweighed him almost five pounds and never retreated, unless it was to get more leverage for a newer swing or a harder drive.

Are Torn Apart

Yet Tony's charge was irresistable. The bulk advantage that was his, and the rugged constitution that nature gave, were called upon to their limit. And these, plus his great fighting heart, beat down the negro, ounce by ounce, inch by inch.

They were still slugging at the bell—and after it—and the referee had to tear them apart to tell them it was the end—the finale of a fight that will linger through the years in the memory of 19,001 persons who paid $83,408.45 to view it.

Four Formations Used By Gridders

After Nearly 60 Years Of Football Only Four Formations Stand Out

ROCKNE-WARNER SYSTEMS GOOD

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—"After nearly 60 years of football play, we have simmered down to four formations on attack," declared John Heisman today. Heisman was an end for Penn State in 1889-90-91, he coached Penn, Georgia Tech and other schools and is rated as one of the most brilliant students of the pigskin game.

"Those formations," he added, "are the Rockne system, which calls for a balanced line and a shifting back. The next is the Warner formation, called the double wing halfback. The line is balanced, three men on each side of the center, but instead of the backfield playing directly back of center, or on one side or the other, it calls for the quarter and the fullback to be back of center, while the halfbacks are far out—farther out, in fact, than the ends.

"The third of the four is called the Dobie system, as used by Cornell, but, without trying to take credit from Gil, I pointed out that it was used at Cornell long before Gil arrived on the job. This formation calls for an unbalanced line; that is, four men on one side of center, two on the other. The backs shift, as in the Notre Dame system, in group formation, to one side of the line or the other.

"The fourth formation is almost as old as the game itself. It is the shallow punt formation.

"Through the years we have had many other formations, but one by one they have been discarded. They had too many flaws, either by reason of the fact that the other teams could smash them too quickly, or that the formation itself was too difficult for the players to use to gaining advantage.

"Any coach can sit down and think up a formation that is utterly flawless and could be used to make tremendous gains. But football players are merely human beings after all ,and unless a formation admits the fallibility of the human in its operation, then it is of no value whatsoever.

"Smart coaches learned this long ago and that is why, during the last 10 or 15 years of what might be called a 'filtering process' they have adopted four formations as the standard and adhere to these with few, if any, variations."

No Game Today At Taggart Stadium

Taggart stadium will not be the scene of any football game this afternoon. The New Castle high gridders are resting up until next Thursday afternoon when they close the 1931 season by opposing Erie East high in the Turkey Day classic.

Reserves Defeat Zelienople Here

Locals Running Attack Too Strong For Visiting Team Friday Afternoon

Pass And Trick Play Are Causes Of Two Touchdowns In Thrilling Game

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 21—Coach Ernest Hensley's Ellwood High Reserve team was a smooth working club Friday afternoon when they trounced the Zellenople Reserves 18-0 at Lincoln field. The latter's team was almost identical with the varsity with the exception of three seniors who were ineligible to play in this game.

The contest was not long on its way when it became apparent that the local Reserves were the masters. Immediately following the kickoff when they took the ball on downs, a straight drive for the goal line was started. Strouse and McCloskey brought the oval within scoring distance and then a clever 12 yard pass from Segedi was the cause of the first score. The line plunge for extra point failed.

The affair was a one sided battle with Ellwood doing most of the offensive work. Rogner was forced to punt on the fourth down following the next kickoff and the locals were on their way for the second touchdown. Four first downs were made enroute, one of them caused by a pass. Strouse brought the pigskin within scoring distance with his 30 yd. run through center. On his next line play be brought the ball within six yards of goal. Two line plunges failed to gain any yardage and so the locals resorted to a ruse to bring their second score. Barnes, Ellwood's right end came from the line to argue with the backfield. As he came behind the center the Zelienople forward wall raised to see what was going on, the ball snapped and Barnes had no difficulty in proceding to the goal. The pass for extra point was batted down, with the score standing 12-0 for Ellwood just before the half ended.

The third quarter was barely on its way when the locals got their final marker. It came about almost immediately following Zelienople's punt to McCloskey who advanced the ball 20 yards to Zelienople's 45. The local's drive resulted in another score with Strouse going over from the 11 yard line.

In the final stanza Coach Saeger's proteges braced themselves and held Ellwood scoreless. Both coaches began to send in numerous substitutes and the remainder of the game was fought on more even terms. More passes were attempted by each team with no one seriously threatening. The game closed with the score remaining unchanged, 18-0 for the Ellwood Reserves.

The Reserve's strength is more apparent when it is known that they ran up 11 first downs to 2 for Zelienople. Ralph Strouse played the usual game that he is capable of and was a constant threat to the visiting team's hopes. He did most of the ball toting. McCloskey was more brilliant on the defense this time. Andy Segedi played a clever game at the generalship post. Johnson, Offutt and Glover were outstanding in the line. For Zelienople Rogner, Eicholtz, Yockey and Getsay were the best performers.

This game wound up the season for the local reserves. The varsity ends it season today at Ambridge.

The summary:

Ellwood 18		Zelienople 0

School Situation Is Revealed In Survey Of City

Ellwood City Has High Illiteracy Rate; Other Facts Shown

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 20.—Below appears the second installment of the survey report arranged by Superintendent of Schools, W. Ray Smith. Further facts on the community and school situation are shown.

Ellwood City is one of the most rapidly growing boroughs of its class in Pennsylvania, ranking eighth of 24 cities in its growth from 1910 to 1920. The borough is not crowded, and since it can expand in every direction, it need never face the problem which confront many communities relative to expansion. With the growth that is practically assured by the diversified industries and the excellent transportation facilities, Ellwood City can expect to become a city of 20,00 to 25,000 before many years. Accordingly her expenditures for education will be constantly on the increase.

The school population has increased very rapidly since 1900. It has multiplied almost ten times since that time.

Fifty per cent of the population are native born of native parents; twenty eight per cent are native born of foreign parents, and twenty two per cent are foreign born. The nationalities represented by the foreigners are mostly Italian, German, Polish, and Hungarian, the Italians predominating. Of the foreign born represented in the industries the Italians predominate. This nationality furnishes the basic industries of the community with workmen who do common labor of a rough and heavy nature.

The school population is quite cosmopolitan. There are more than twenty nationalities represented, with American and Italian children predominating.

Age Groups

Twenty per cent of the population of Ellwood City is under 7 years of age, as compared with the 23 other boroughs studied. It ranks fourth, the median being 16.4 per cent and the range from 10 per cent to 25.6 per cent. The above figures have a significance in defining one of the education problems for Ellwood City. As compared with other boroughs Ellwood City ranks high in infants and children of school age. This means that there will have to be definite planning for housing and caring for this large "crop" of infants and children.

Illiteracy

Another question of importance is what per centage of the borough's population is illiterate? For the United States as a whole, counting all persons ten years old or older, 6.0 per cent is illiterate. For Pennsylvania as a whole 4.6 per cent is illiterate, and for Ellwood City 8.1 per cent is illiterate.

From the above figures it is clearly seen that Ellwood City has an illiteracy problem on her hands. Just how large a problem this is as compared with that which other communities of this class are confronted with may be seen from chart, which shows Ellwood Citie's place among 24 communities of its own class. In this group Ellwood City holds twenty second place from the top.

At first thought the doing away with illiteracy, most of which is among adults, seems not to be a function of the school, but since the function of the school is to make better citizens, the function of the public schools must be broadened to meet this issue. There is no reason why the public school should be for children only. It should be for all, old as well as young.

Gala Crowd At South Bend For Battle Today

Mayor Walker, New York, And Six Of Movie Stars Will See Irish-Trojans

WEATHER COLD, RAIN FORECAST

By JIMMY CORCORAN
International News Service Sports Writer

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 21.—All they're asking for now is a bouncing fast track for the annual scramble here this afternoon between Notre Dame's Irish and the Trojans of Southern California.

In fact, it seems quite agreed that unless the under-footing is solid the 55,000 who will attend probably will see one of the year's great games become just another sketch of the boys chasing a bar of soap around in a bath tub.

Rain And Snow.

The prediction of northern Indiana's weather geezer is that it may rain this morning and then turn to snow by afternoon.

Yet, there was a prospect that the said weather prophet might be a bit wet in his forecast. As wet, probably as the weather was in these parts all yesterday.

A stiff cold wind was blowing up out of the northwest early this morning and if this is a sign of anything it might mean clear, cold weather.

Practically every man on the Trojan squad is in perfect condition with the exception of Young Shaver, who has a slight ailment of the hoof.

Three Stars Out.

Coach "Hunk" Anderson of Notre Dame announced three of his stars would not see action. They are Melinkovich and Koken, backfield men; and Pierce, a guard. However, Anderson said he would be able to put sufficient men on the field.

Neither coach has come to the front with a prediction of victory. Howard Jones of Troy knows better and Anderson never was given much to the idea of what was going to happen in advance.

Mayor Jimmy Walker will be a guest of Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame University, at the game. Walker is an old line Notre Dame rooter.

Among the movie stars at the game will be Joan Crawford, Lupe Velez, Jean Harlow, Claudette Colbert, Rouel Torres and Sally O'Neill.

You can add to this select list the names of thousands who arrive from all directions today by train and plane.

As for the game itself it promises to be one of the "pips" of the year—providing the field is dry.

Primo Carnera Free On Bond

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Primo Carnera, Italy's mountainous pugilist, was at liberty on $4,000 bond today in the garnishment suit brought by George A. Biemer, a boxing promoter of Fort Wayne, Ind. The massive fighter was released from the custody of sheriff's deputies after he had posted the bond to assure his appearance in superior court Monday. The garnishment suit is based on $3,754 judgment obtained in Detroit by Biemer, who contends Primo failed to abide by a contract he signed to fight for the promoter. Carnera's purse of $15,000 from his victorious bout here Thursday night with King Levinsky is tied up by a writ of garnishment. Immediately after the fight the big Italian was placed in custody.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Favorites Hit In Recession Today

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—An early rally in the railroad and industrial stocks failed to hold today and the final period saw the renewal of the selling pressure which forced prices of the favorites to new low levels.

Once again the stock market was under the dominance of grain and other important commodities. With Wheat advancing briskly at the outset, stocks forged ahead and the bulls carried the battle to the bears in such leaders as United States Steel, New York Central and General Electric, Big Steel sold above 63, against yesterday's low at 60⅝ and New York Central topped 39.

When Wheat broke 2¾ cents a bushel the complexion of the stock market also changed. Large blocks of the active rail and industrial stocks were thrown on the market and prices broke to the week's lowest levels. United States Steel dipped to a new low at 60. American Tel and Tel was under pressure and sold under 131 for a loss of 2 points. Auburn Auto dipped from its early high of 109¼ to 103⅛.

Industrial news at the week-end was unchanged. The weekly business reviews attributed the tardiness in retail trade to the unseasonably warm weather, which has already set back the fall merchandising season about three weeks. Reports from foreign sources were confusing, but foreign trade circles were none too pleased over the new British import tariff, which will probably cut down the volume of our exports to England.

Speculative demand for the rails was based on reports that in exchange for the assurance of steady work for a period of one year, the union labor leaders were willing to favor a 10 per cent wage cut. Further negotiations with railroad executives are now taking place here, and will probably be continued until late today.

Cotton and Silver were fairly steady in the week-end market and bonds held steady, with Liberty bonds a shade lower and the better grade of railroad issues recvering a part of Friday's late losses. Selling pressure of stocks eased off as the closing period approached. But the general level of industrial stocks was slightly lower at the close.

Sharon Theater Owners To Stage Movies Sunday

Theater Owners Going Ahead With Plans For Benefit Sunday, Despite Protests

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 21. — Heated controversy over Sunday operation of motion picture theaters here for the benefit of the unemployed loomed today as three local theater managers announced they would proceed with benefit performances scheduled for tomorrow night.

Holding of Sunday performances, although they are for benefit purposes, was strenuously opposed by the Ministerial Association.

Canfield Man Runs Into Auto

Turned Over To State Highway Patrol On Reckless Driving Charge

Mrs. Olive Bolinger, of 708 Emerson avenue, reported to the police last night that as she was driving west on Falls street at Jefferson St. and was almost across Jefferson St. that Mike Miller of Canfield, O. R. D., 2, enroute south of Jefferson St. struck and damaged her car.

Investigation by the police led to the discovery that Miller had apparently been driving in a reckless manner. He was turned over to the state highway patrol and taken before a local alderman, where a fine and costs were paid on a reckless driving charge.

Eugene Wray of 130 Winter avenue, reported that he was enroute south on North Jefferson street at North street, when a young lady about twenty years of age, whose name he did not secure, stepped out from behind a parked car in crossing from the east to the west side of North Jefferson street and was hit by the fender of his machine. She was taken to the office of a physician, where it was found that she had escaped with a minor bruise. She then went home.

E. F. G. Harper, of 309 Boyles avenue reported last night that he was enroute west on Wallace avenue and crossing Highland avenue, as a street car was discharging passengers at the south side of Wallace avenue, when a car bound north and going to the left side of the street car, collided with his car, doing some damage.

Roll Call Drive Stressed Today

Booths Are Maintained In Banks, Stores, And Post Office

Today will witness the peak of endeavor in the 50th anniversary roll call of the American Red Cross, the nation's relief organization, locally, as members of the Woman's club, aided by girls from the senior high school maintain booths where subscriptions may be made in the postoffice, banks and department stores.

General chairman Frank J. Brenneman in charge of the roll call in Lawrence, today issued an appeal to the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence county to enroll during the next few days, as the roll call will be brought to a close Thanksgiving Day.

There has never been a period in the history of the organization that money has never been needed for actual relief as at the present time.

NATIONS LEAGUE STILL HOPEFUL OF HALTING WARFARE

iers had been concentrated near Chinchow in preparation for an attack on the South Manchuria railway, Japanese circles today charged that General Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Chinese Nationalist government, had decided to send his own troops into Manchuria to fight the Japanese.

Chiang announced several days ago that he planned to visit Manchuria to investigate the situation and to render service to his "party and nation". Japanese sources, however, declared they had learned that at a secret session of the Nanking government, Chiang-Kai-Shek and his advisors had decided to take hostilities out of the hands of provincial troops and send the regular Chinese army into battle.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

QUAI D'ORSAY, Paris, Nov. 21.—Hopes of the League of Nations council that an armistice could be arranged in Manchuria were blasted today when it was learned that both Japan and China will reject the proposal.

So certain were league officials that hostilities could be ended in Manchuria pending the dispatching of a commission of inquiry to Manchuria and China that announcement was made of an armistice agreement, to be quickly followed by denials on the part of both the Japanese and Chinese delegations.

With respect to the proposed investigation by a League commission, including a representative of the United States, there appeared to be more likelihood of a Sino-Japanese agreement, but both Alfred Sze and Kenkichi Yoshizawa have declined to commit themselves until they are informed of the scope and purposes of the inquiry which the League has in mind.

A plenary session of the council for public discussion of the plan had been scheduled for this afternoon, but in view of the new deadlock which has arisen there was a feeling this morning among some members of the council that it would be wiser to postpone the public meeting until next week.

Both the Chinese and Japanese delegation, on the other hand, were eager for an open meeting, declaring that nothing was being gained from the secret sessions, and demanding an opportunity to express the views of their governments.

On behalf of the Nanking government, Dr. Sze still wants the United States and the other signatories of the Chinese territorial integrity treaty of 1922 to invoke that pact against Japan, and continued today to stand on his refusal to agree to a preliminary league inquiry unless the withdrawal of Japanese, troops from Manchuria took place prior to or concurrently with the investigation.

MUKDEN, Nov. 21.—Movement of large bodies of Chinese troops to Chinchow, 150 miles southwest of Mukden, was reported today to Japanese military headquarters here.

Japanese authorities said the situation in the Chinchow area was becoming increasingly serious, and hinted important military developments were anticipated.

Three Train-loads

Any disturbances in South Manchuria by troops of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang or other Chinese commanders were expected to result in the same prompt and effective measures by the Japanese as were taken in driving the Chinese out of the Tsitsihar area.

Messages received here said that among the Chinese troops en route to Chinchow was a cavalry brigade from Tungliao, and that three train loans of Chinese troops had arrived north of the great wall from the Peiping-Tientsin area.

The attention of both Chinese and Japanese here was centered today on the ceremonial review of the newly arrived mixed brigade of the Japanese regular army.

Troops Made Ready

These troops will now be available for front-line action in the event that fighting breaks out around Chinchow.

Led by their officers, the troops first proceeded to the Shinto Shrine, where services were conducted by Japanese priests, and then marched through the principal streets, finally passing in review before General Shigeru Honjo, commander-in-chief of the expeditionary forces in Manchuria.

General Honjo reviewed the brigade from steps of the South Manchuria railway hospital, where most of the Japanese wounded in the Anganki-Tsitsihar fighting are being cared for.

Ask Independent Voting District Made At Edenburg

Residents Of Mahoning Township Object To Present Method Of Voting

Residents of Mahining township are waiting the decision of a commission composed of Attorney Homer C. Drake, W. Leslie Wilson and Joseph Hannon, on a petition recently presented to court, in which it is asked that the independent school district of Edenburg be made a separate voting precinct.

The Edenburg Independent School District, was formed by order of court in September, 1912. It has sonce functioned as a separate school district in all matters pertaining to schools, but at the general election has been permitted to vote for school directors in the balance of Mahoning township in which it is located. There are over 100 voters in the district.

It is contended by other residents of Mahoning township that the Edenburg independent district, should not be permitted to vote for school directors who are to serve in the balance of the township. It is asked that the boundaries of Mahoning township as now constituted be altered to exclude the Edenurg independent district, and that it form a separate election district.

Testimony in support of the proposition, which was taken earlier in the month, has been written out, and will now be given consideration by the commission, after which a recommendation will be made to court.

Papers Are Filed In Another Suit

Case Of J. O. Rodgers, Use Of Land Bank, Against Universal Sand Co.

Another suit has been filed at the prothonotary's office by J. O. Rodgers, use of Ohio-Pennsylvania Joint Stock land bank against the Universal Sand company. This case was non-suited at the session of court just closed, on account of the way the papers were drawn. Plaintiff has eliminated the objectionable features in the new suit.

The case grows out of a lease made by Rodgers with the Sand company for a portion of the Piedmont farm on the New Castle-Beaver road. The sand company was to open up a bank for sand and gravel and pay Rodgers 2 cents per ton royalty, the minimum amount to be taken out yearly being fixed at 60,000 tons.

The sand company never opened up the bank, and it is claimed is indebted to the plaintiff on the lease, which specified a certain time at which operations were to begin.

In the case of Mrs. Vivian Price against the Mutual Life Insurance Company of Baltimore, which was taken up before Judge James A. Chambers in court yesterday, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $525.

It was claimed that at the time the policy was written up by the agent here Ruth was in the Jameson Memorial hospital, suffering from a bone disease, known as Osteomyelitis. She died soon after the policy was taken up, and a dispute arose over technical matters.

English May Be Named As Sealer

City Resident Is Likely Appointee For City-County Position

Any changes made in the position of sealer of weights and measures will not be made entirely by the board of county commissioners, it developed today. Mayor-elect Charles B. Mayne is said to have some ideas on the subject and according to rumors Reed English is a strong possibility for the appointment.

Some years ago, during the term of office when Weingartner, Huey and Shields were county commissioners, the city and county each had a sealer of weights and measures, each paying a salary of $100 per month and expenses. The expenses for each one usually amounted to about $600 per year.

The then county commissioners worked out an agreement with the city council in which the office was to be a joint one, the salary to be $2000 per year and the incumbent pay his own expenses. Since that time W. Arthur Brown has been the sealer of weights and measures and each succeeding administration, both city and county, has approved him.

The position of the mayor-elect seems to be that if the position is to be thrown open, a city man should be appointed by city council, following a tenure of some years by appointment of the county commissioners.

The road work was done in the following townships: Plaingrove, Pulaski, Wilmington, Mahoning, Union, Neshannock, Big Beaver, Slippery Rock and North Beaver townships.

Economic Solution Up To Individuals

Silas H. Strawn, President Of United States Chamber Of Commerce Makes Statement

(International News Service)

BUFFALO, Nov. 21.—The program of solving the economic depression lies wholly with the individual American citizen, Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told officers and directors of the chamber at the annual meeting here.

"I have had hundreds of suggestions to cure all our troubles but I have yet to hear any plan that will bring us back to normal economic basis more quickly than each doing our best in our own job every day," Strawn said in a dinner speech last night.

He pointed to the unsuccessful attempt of the federal farm board to stabilize the prices of agricultural products and compared it with similar attempts of other countries at artificial price fixing.

"These plans were born of good intentions yet they have been failures and I believe the people of the world have come to the conclusion that while for a time they may stimulate prices by artificial means, ultimately the price of all commodities must respond to the inevitable rule of supply and demand.

Fate Of Pinchot's Relief Program Is Hanging In Balance

Second Week Of Special Session Passes With Little Being Accomplished

Threats Made By Several To Cripple Administration Program If Possible

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21. — Although the second week of the special session yielded some slight indication of legislative currents, adjournment until next Monday night was in effect today with the fate of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's relief program still hanging in the balance.

Counter overtures to the assembly for effecting relief, reputedly the work of the Republican state organization, have made their appearance as a threat to cripple the administration program.

A house that tended to share the governor's views and a senate that made no pretense of hiding its displeasure toward his projects summarizes the situation. For the governor, it is not a new situation.

No Retreat

If the attitude of the upper branch is to be taken as irrevocably adjusted for the session, and "organization" leaders insist there will be no retreat, there can be no mistake about the heated battle awaiting Governor Pinchot's proposals.

The flare-up against administration methods is represented in the new program said to be sponsored by the state organization. Governor Pinchot's outline would raise $100,000,000 through the new taxation, "prosperity bonds" and emergency municipal borrowing, with the bulk of the money to be administered by a commission appointed by the executive.

The counter proposals calls for the transfer of $30,000,000 from the general fund to the motor fund. Two thirds of this amount would be allocated to cities, towns, boroughs and first class townships and the remainder to second class townships for highway building within the municipalities.

These bills were introduced simultaneously by Rep. Lewis Hagmaier, Allegheny, and Senator Williamson, Huntingdon.

Taste Of Storm

An early taste of the incipient storm was contained in resolutions offered by Senator Frank L. Fay, Mercer county. The measures called for information from two state departments concerning the amount of money expended on construction projects passed by the last session and a transfer of money from the general fund to the motor fund.

Fay, an avowed foe of the governor, traveled no by-passes in demanding explanation for the failure to spend more than a fraction of the $42,000,000 which the assembly made available for construction and road building at the last regular session. Fay demanded why only $512,000 of a $32,500,000 appropriation for new buildings has been spent. The resolutions went to the committee on appropriations after a stubborn battle waged by Pinchot floor leaders to consign them to the roads committee.

Another angle has been added to the already confused situation through Attorney General William A. Schnader's latest opinion that the governor may, at any time during the session, amend his proclamation and insert additional subjects for assembly consideration.

Spirited Clash

Anti-Pinchot leaders were wont to look upon the Schnader pronouncement as indicative of defeat for the original program and as the forerunner of an executive decision to expand the scope of relief legislation before it is too late.

Unyielding opposition in the upper branch and the equally unyielding position of the governor on his program foreshadow a spirited clash which probably will result in capitulation by one side, or in a compromise, if any economic relief is to be effected.

The three principal revenue raising bills are still a long way from house passage. Even sympathy for the governor's program in the lower branch does not indicate perfect accord. When it comes to saddling additional taxation upon their constituents, the lawmakers not only find themselves up a tree, but look upon their seat as situated dangerously far out on a weak limb.

Heated Protests

The fire which the gasoline, cigaret, billboard taxation measures drew from opposing interests at public hearings made the tree-sitting still more uncomfortable.

Forces arraigned against the bills, going into the hearings with sleeves rolled up for combat, emerged satisfied they had made the desired impression.

Predictions were freely made that some close conferring with "the folks back home" will precede any moves by the legislators toward pushing the tax bills to passage.

Public Invited To Inspect S. A. Headquarters

Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Doerr Shows Interest With Liberal Donation

Headquarters of the Salvation Army in the Y. W. C. A. is now the mecca for many persons interested in the coming appeal for funds with which maintain the work of the army in the city for the coming year.

The public is invited to call at headquarters and look over the display, which shows the work being carried on in nearly every known land of the world. There are fully a thousand pictures on display showing all phases of the army's work.

The display includes exhibits of the religious, social and welfare work of the army and all the requirements for a person to become an officer of the army, also the requirements of membership in the Young People's groups.

In the window is the mountain of achievement and on Monday, the train will start at the bottom, showing the progress made as the solicitation for funds for the army progresses.

Interest in the campaign is general and the workers are limited to no one race or creed. Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Doerr, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, who was a member of the Salvation Army Advisory board in Duquesne, Pa., last night voluntarily gave a gift of $10 to the fund and appointed the group from his parish, who will assist in the appeal for funds and also in putting across the Mass meeting at the Cathedral on November 29.

Newspapers Hailed Best Advertisers

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Nov. 21.—Local newspapers were described as the most important medium on a merchandising program by J. F. O'Brien manager of the advertising and sales promotion department of the Westinghouse Lamp company, New York, in addressing the Rotary Club here.

O'Brien told the club: "In planning your advertising and merchandising programs, do not overlook the most important medium at your disposal—your local newspapers.

"The newspapers are your closest contact with the consumer and you should always plan newspaper advertising campaigns to tie in with the manufacturers' national advertising.

"No advertising or promoting program is complete without the local newspaper tie-in."

THE PARENT PROBLEM

First Aid For Child Stutterer

Help Stammerer Feel Secure, Unhurried, Says Dr. Myers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

"DEAR SIR: Reading your articles I was wondering if you would kindly give me some information on how to treat my child, a three-year-old boy, for stuttering."

Answer: The important thing is to make sure the child is built up physically, that he does not grow too weary or excited. Put emphasis upon regular routine habits. Let everyone work for quiet voices and unnecessary noises, and be sure he has an afternoon nap, that he never plays actively for more than an hour at a time, and that he comes in for quiet and rest about 40 minutes before the evening meal.

Never stop the child while speaking nor make him feel that you notice his stuttering. If you know the word he wants, quietly give it to him. Never look at his mouth while he is stuttering, and see to it that nobody laughs at him, teases him, nor talks about his stuttering. Try to be calm and patient and make him feel that everything will always be all right and that he never needs to hurry to express himself. In case there are other children, be sure that you never make comparisons and that you do everything possible to avoid jealousy.

• • •

"Dr. Myers: I don't just know how to begin this letter, but I will come right down to facts and tell you this, I cannot control my three-year-old child.

"I have tried everything from kindness to the hardest whipping—but of no avail. She defies incessantly, will listen to your explanation one minute and turn right around and do the very thing which she was reprimanded for. I am at my wits' end, if I must call it that. She will not listen to me, and so wish your advice as to what I could do to make her obey."

Answer: Write to the "Parent Problem", in care of this paper, enclosing ten cents (to cover cost of printing and mailing) and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, asking for my pamphlet on "Punishments and Rewards". Also go to your public library and borrow my book, "The Modern Parent", and read particularly the chapter on "Parents Who Punish Injudiciously".

Modern Life Inducive Of Bad Posture

Physician Avers Auto Encourages Drooping Figures

By LOGAN CLENDENING M. D.

Educators generally are agreed that the posture of school children today is their worst physical fault.

This fault increases right up through youth and adult life so that today we have a race distinguished by the worst bodily posture of many generations. Perhaps the worst bodily posture since the beginning of history.

Why this should be true is not easy to determine. Probably it is not due to any one cause. An ingenious theory has been advanced to the effect that by modern methods of hygiene we are saving more of the children of the slender droopy type and as these are the most prolific we are nourishing a generation doomed to bad postures.

Undoubtedly also the comforts and improvements of modern life have tended to increase poor posture habits. The average boy or girls of today does not have to do so much physical work as did their grandparents at the same age. There is little wood chopping for fires there is even little shoveling of coal into furnaces. Fewer errands to run: the delivery system of stores has modified that.

The change from horse transportation to automobile is quite as suggested as a cause. You can't slouch when you ride a horse or drive a buggy. The very lines and build of modern automobiles tend to emphasize a drooping, round-shouldered posture. And the long tours that the automobile lends itself to, the stretches of time that are spent in this drooping posture, add to the tendency to fix the round-shouldered sitting posture permanently.

It will be seen from this discussion that there are two factors in the causation of poor posture. One is bodily form and the other is habit.

While any kind of a body can assume a bad position, the thin "linear" type is most likely to do so. This is partly because the muscles are long and thin and hence weak. They are under more strain to maintain a good posture than shorter, thicker muscles. Although it is also true, that there are plenty of examples of bad posture—round shoulders and protuberant abdomens—among the stocky "lateral" type.

So far as habit is concerned, the most important feature to emphasize is that deliberate training can produce a good posture. Conscientious effort can maintain the improvement that training has produced.
